I	Year in Review	25 QUESTIONS
II	The Unbreakable Year	THE VISION
III	The Magic Word	THE INTENTION

If you're reading this, you're on your way to an epic year. If there is one thing I've learned about designing your Rich Life, it's that intentionality is the key.

I recommend blocking a few hours, with your partner if you have one, and giving yourself the time and space to dive in free of interruptions. It doesn't matter whether you do it all at once or break it up over several sittings. Each exercise builds on the ones before it.

We'll start with the Year in Review, with 25 questions designed to highlight what went well, what didn't, and areas to focus your attention in the coming year.

Next we'll dive into the Unbreakable Year, my signature exercise for designing your rich life. It will help you envision your ideal lifestyle, understand how much that life costs, and see what you can do to improve it for free.

Finally, the Magic Word is my favorite. I've been using this personally, and with my community and team members, for the last five years. We all look forward to it every year. The power of a single-word intention has to be experienced to be believed.

I hope this guide helps you author your version of a rich life. If you want more powerful exercises like this one, consider joining the Unbreakable Wealth community, where high performers, founders, athletes, and professionals focus on mastering money in order to find meaning, purpose and fulfillment.

Here's to everything the next twelve months have to offer.

SECTION ONE

Year in Review

To move forward with clarity, we must first understand where we've been. These 25 questions are designed to show you what to keep, what to let go of, and your biggest areas of focus for next year.

REFLECTION & CELEBRATION

01 What were your biggest wins this year, both individually and as a couple?

02 What challenges did you overcome together?

03 What moments brought you the most joy?

04 What investments of time, money or energy paid off the most?

05 What are you most proud of this year? What are you most proud of about your partner?

GROWTH & LEARNING

06 What was your most expensive lesson this year?

07 What patterns or behaviors held you back?

08 Where did you play too small?

09 What risks were worth taking? Which weren't?

10 What did you learn about yourself through your relationship with money this year?

RELATIONSHIP DYNAMICS

11 When did you feel most aligned this year? What about as partners?

12 What conversations about money were difficult to have?

13 How did you support each other's growth?

14 Where could you have communicated better about finances?

15 What decisions brought you closer together?

BUSINESS & WEALTH

16 What moved the needle most in your business or career?

17 Which investments yielded the best return on happiness?

18 Where did you waste time or resources?

19 What opportunities did you miss because of fear?

20 How well did you maintain balance between work and life?

LIFESTYLE & WELLBEING

21 How well did you prioritize your health this year?

22 What experiences brought the most fulfillment?

23 Where did you sacrifice wellbeing for work?

24 How present were you for the important moments?

25 What habits served you well? Which ones didn't?

SECTION TWO

The Unbreakable Year

My signature exercise for designing your rich life. Not only will this help you envision your ideal lifestyle, it will show you what that life costs and what you can do to improve it for free.

“I am the source of time. Time is a resource I distribute. I am the producer of time.”

GAY HENDRICKS

Take a moment before you begin. Let go of expectations, obligations, and shoulds. This exercise is about imagining a year that reflects the life you actually want to live, rather than the life your obligations drag you into.

This workbook walks you through the full Unbreakable Year process that I've been using both personally and with members of my community since 2017.

Here is where you give yourself permission to dream without restraint. No one is going to hold you to any specific detail. Instead, think of this as a guiding light, a bold vision to hold for what's possible.

To begin your vision, remember three things

- Dare to dream bigger than what feels reasonable.
- Start with your big rocks so the small things fall into place naturally.
- Let yourself imagine a life where you do not apologize for what you want.

THE FIVE PILLARS OF FREEDOM

Your life rests on five foundational domains. These are the areas where freedom compounds and where constraints show you where to focus. Define what wealth means to you in each one.

Health

Your body, your energy, your capacity to be here for it.

Relationships

The people you build a life around.

Time

What you own, what you owe, and what you protect.

Mind

What you learn, what you build, what you think about.

Soul

What it is all in service of.

LIFESTYLE

These prompts help you architect a life you actually want to live. Answer each one with specificity.

Where are you living?

What time do you wake up?

Who do you wake up next to?

What is your morning routine?

What time do you start work?

LIFESTYLE

What does your workday look like?

What kind of business do you have?

What parts of your business energize you?

What parts have you delegated?

How do you balance goals with presence?

RELATIONSHIPS

What are some ways you reconnect with yourself?

What does your relationship with your spouse look like?

How does your spouse describe you?

How do you spend time with your family?

How do your kids describe you, if applicable?

RELATIONSHIPS

Who are your ideal friends?

How do you spend time with those friends?

How do your friends describe you?

What do you do for personal fulfillment?

GROWTH

What are you learning?

What adventures are you having?

What impact are you making?

What are you most proud of?

GROWTH

What fear will you face?

Who holds you accountable?

Who are your mentors?

How are you challenging yourself?

VIVID VISION

Write one to two full pages describing your perfect day in the life. Focus on how you feel throughout rather than on logistics.

Start by mapping your day from when you wake up until the time you go to sleep. This becomes the heartbeat of your year.

Include

- Sensory details
 - Emotional texture
 - What feels effortless
 - Who you interact with
 - Nonnegotiables for how you want to live

THE IDEAL WEEK

Define what an ideal week looks like, and be explicit about minimum standards rather than maximum aspirations. List the recurring elements you want to protect.

Time blocking. Deep work versus calls.

Exercise

Family and partner time

Self care

Moving the ball forward on needle movers

THE IDEAL MONTH

Zoom out one level. What would an ideal month look like if you were truly living in alignment? This becomes your cadence rather than reacting to chaos.

Experiences you want each month

Rituals

Adventures

Recovery or rest periods

Creative windows

THE IDEAL YEAR

Now stretch into the full year. This is your strategic layer.

What does your perfect year look like?

What do you want to accomplish personally?

What do you want to accomplish professionally?

What milestones matter?

What adventures define the year?

What deep work or long arcs of growth do you commit to?

PRICE IT OUT

Here is where the dream meets math. List the cost of your ideal life, then total it. That total is your Ideal Spend, and it becomes the baseline for calculating the gap between where you are and what the unbreakable version of your life requires.

CATEGORY	MONTHLY	ANNUAL
Mortgage or housing
Food and dining
Household expenses
Travel
Events
Material possessions

IDEAL SPEND

Carry your monthly Ideal Spend into the Escape Velocity Wealth Snapshot to see the number that makes work optional.

IDENTIFY THE GAP

This is your Freedom Map for the year.

MONTHLY

ANNUAL

Current income

Ideal expenses

Savings

REQUIRED INCOME

WHAT THIS TELLS YOU

COMMITMENTS

Clarify the actions that make the vision real. These become the guiding principles of your year.

What are your non-negotiables? Choose three to five.

What can you implement now without spending money?

What do you need to say no to?

What habits or processes make the outcome inevitable?

III

SECTION THREE

The Magic Word

A single-word intention to guide your decision-making for the coming year. If you truly lean into this process, your word will serve as a guiding light and a source of strength for the year to come.

This exercise is both one of my favorites and one of the most powerful annual traditions I've used over the past few years to set intentions and guide my decision-making for the coming year.

A word of wisdom after doing this for a few years. Once you've gone through the exercise, sit with your word for a week or so and make sure it still brings the same magic. Think of it like trying on a new shirt. It may feel great initially, and you want to know whether you still like it after wearing it a couple of times.

PART ONE • REFLECTION

Take out your journal and reflect on these questions. This part may be a bit uncomfortable, and that's ok. Lean in with curiosity. It gets better.

01 What patterns kept showing up for you last year? Where did you feel stuck or notice yourself repeating the same challenges?

02 When did you feel most alive and aligned last year? What were you doing? Who were you being in those moments?

PART ONE • REFLECTION

- 03 What's the gap between where you are now and where you want to be? Not just in business or finances, but in how you show up in the world.

- 04 If you could wave a magic wand and transform one aspect of yourself this year, what would it be?

ANYTHING ELSE SURFACING

PART TWO • VISION

Imagine yourself on December 31st of this year, reflecting back on the most transformative year of your life. Write down everything you see, feel and experience in this vision without editing or judging.

How do you feel in your body?

What's different about how you show up in your relationships?

How has your relationship with your work evolved?

What makes you most proud about who you've become?

PART THREE • THE LIST

Look at what you've written so far. Start circling words or themes that stand out. What patterns do you notice?

Make a list of five to ten potential words, or more, that capture the essence of who you want to become, how you want to feel, and what you want to create.

Don't be too focused on finding the perfect word. It's more about listing everything that comes to mind, and we will pare it down later. Remember that your word isn't about what you want to do or achieve. It's about who you want to be.

PART FOUR • TESTING YOUR WORD

Once you have your shortlist, circle your top three and test each one with these questions.

01 Does this word make you feel both excited and slightly uncomfortable? Growth happens at the edge of your comfort zone.

02 Is this word broad enough to apply to all areas of your life, yet specific enough to guide daily decisions?

03 When you say this word out loud, does it feel true? Does it resonate in your body?

04 Can you imagine using this word as a filter for decisions throughout the year?

Do your best to focus on the words that roll up and embody others on the list. For example, my word one year was Purpose. When I looked at the other words on my list, such as Productive or Intentional, they were all included within the bigger idea of Purpose.

PART FIVE • COMMITMENT

Choose your word and write it down. Then complete these statements.

MY WORD

I choose this word because...

This word will help me become...

I will know I'm living this word when...

When I'm challenged, this word will remind me to...

ONE LAST THING

There is no perfect word. What matters is choosing one that feels aligned with who you're becoming, and committing to let it guide you.

Your word is your anchor for the year ahead. Let it be both your challenge and your permission slip, pushing you to grow while reminding you that you're exactly where you need to be on your journey.

To finding your word,
